

ARMY IS READY TO FIGHT FLU

Southern Department Commander Issues Rules For Prevention.

The army is preparing now to fight influenza this winter. Rules covering preventive measures to be taken in every district have been issued by Maj. Gen. Joseph Dickman, southern department commander, to all district commanders who are to forward them to all commanding officers.

All commanding officers are to be held responsible for a strict enforcement of the order providing for sanitation in barracks, kitchens, mess halls and other buildings. All influenza patients must be isolated in hospitals and all soldiers with colds are required to remain away from public or semi-public gatherings.

The first of the influenza order reads: "That all dishes, cups, be washed in hot, not warm, water. That all persons with any cause, especially colds and coughs, be promptly reported to the surgeon, and not allowed to remain in mess halls or other public buildings. That mess halls with colds remain away from gatherings of people, especially mess halls, etc. That the common drinking cup be abolished and individual cups used. This is a definite source of conveying many diseases from person to person. If water cups cannot be furnished, the use of the cup should be discontinued by each man."

Other ways of mouth to mouth infection by smoking each other's pipes, etc., should be abolished.

In hospitals, all cases of influenza or its complications, will be isolated from other cases. Patients with flu, pneumonia, and other diseases will be isolated in separate wards. It is not desired to give any line of treatment to be given influenza cases, vaccines and serums have not proved beneficial or curative, and their use and that of demulcent drugs, such as cod liver oil, are not recommended.

The Cost of Upkeep

A run-down business is like a dilapidated house, the cost of putting either one back on its feet is often greater than it would be to start all over again.

To let the telephone run down, in quality of service or in mechanical equipment, would mean far more than a loss to the telephone company, it would mean a loss in business to every user of the telephone.

It has always been the policy of the Bell Telephone Company to keep its property in such repair that its subscribers receive the greatest possible benefit.

But to keep things "ship shape" requires money, more money today than ever before. Materials cost more and wages have increased in an attempt to keep pace with the increased cost of living.

The Bell Telephone Company is working hard to make ends meet, to keep its property in proper operating condition—and to pay wages which will secure the most intelligent and loyal service for the telephone user.

YOUR loyalty to the telephone will make it easier for us to serve you.
